STATE CHESS TOURNAMENT.

Prizes the Best Players Have a Chance to Win .- Invitations to Go to Havana, Cuba-

The State chess tournament, commencing to-morrow, if promises mean anything, will be like the others, a success both socially and as a contest. The local players are well organized and in earnest. They are united in their resolve to have all arrangements complete consistent with true economy. The citizens are lending their assistance by offering prizes. The Kipp Bros. offer the most unique and novel set of chess men ever seen in this part of the country to the one making the best record in the major class. They are called self-righting chess men, with spherical foot, flattened and loaded with lead. Paul H. Krauss, will give a handsome scarf, to which Bingham & Walk will add a handsome scarf-pin, to the prize-winner. Charles F. Meyer & Brother have contributed a box of cigars, to be given to the one mating in the fewest number of moves. Last, but not least, a wooden cane has been of-fered by P. L. Chambers to the one making the lowest score in the major class, as the consola-

Dr. T. F. Leech, the chairman of the com-mittee on arrangements, and one of the founders of the organization, will arrive to-day. Invitations, coupled with various advertisements of the leading hotels of Havana, Cuba, have been received from the Havana chess club to all members of the Indiana chess association, to witness the chess matches between William Steinitz, the present world-champion, and fachigoria, the champion of Russia, and also between Capt. George H. Mackenzie, champion of the United States; Golmayo, champion of Cuba, and Vazquez and Carvajal, the leading players of Mexico. These meetings will last over two months, beginning next week. Cabin passage between New York and Havana has been therefor reduced, but all the Indiana players are not going.

A BRILLIANT SOCIETY EVENT.

One of the brilliant parties of the season was given last night by Mrs. James Bradshaw, at her home No. 515 North Pennsylvania etreet, in honor of her sons and niece Miss Riley, of Harrisburg, Pa. The four large parlors were canvased for dancing, for which Cameron's Orchestra furnished delightful music. A profusion of flowers graced the mantels, and vines covered the front to the floors. Garlands of laurel were festooned from the chandelier to the corners of the room and over the doors and windows. The hostess were an elegant dress of black silk, and Miss Riley were a tasteful costume of dark blue velvet over a white satin petticoat, and carried a narcissus bouquet. Mrs. J. R. Got a Parole from the Governor. Governor Gray gave a Christmas gift in the shape of a parole, yesterday, to Samuel J. Trout, jr., a boy seventeen years of age, who was sentenced, together with several other boys, by the Circuit Court of Sullivan county, April 16, 1886, to the penitentiary for assault with intent to commit rape. It was shown that young Trout was the least to be blamed of those concerned in the crime, had sustained a good moral character up to the time of the offense charged. and his pardon was recommended by the jury who tried him and a large number of Sullivan county people.

A COMPULSORY SCHOOL LAW.

Its Enactment Advocated by State Superintendent of Schools LaFollette.

State Superintendent of Schools LaFollete filed that portion of his report containing his recommendations and suggestions with the Governor yesterday. He congratulates the State on the very satisfactory condition of its schools, and urges that the State Board of Education be given enlarged powers, with a view of making its work still more efficient. The Superintendent is inclined to favor a compulsory education law, and gives some interesting figures to show the necessity of such a statute. There are now in the State 9,882 school-touses. Their value is placed at $13,491,872.21, and the value of the apparatus contained in them is $809,942. The amount expended for school purposes, last year, was $5,235,031.98. In other words, the State, in round numbers, has fifteen millions of dollars invested in school property, and expends five millions of dollars annually in keeping up the schools. At the end of the school year in 1886, the enumeration of children between the ages of six and twenty-one was 760,-529. The enrollment that year was 508,875, and the average daily attendance 387,194. In 1888, the enumeration was 756.989, the enrollment 514,463, and the average daily attendance 408,-775. Calculated in percentages, the average daily attendance for 1877, was 50 per cent. of the enumeration, and 76 per cent. of the enrollment, while 1888 showed the average daily attendance to be 54 per cent. of the enumeration and 79 per cent. of the enrollment, the enrollment being 68 per cent of the enumeration.

The superintendent suggests, however, that the above figures are based upon the recorded membership of the schools rather than the actual attendance, and asserts his belief that the actual average daily attendance is not over 25 per cent. of the enumeration and 50 per cent. of the enrollment, and that the enrollment is not over 50 per cent. of the enumeration. In this belief the superintendent makes his argument for a cumpulsory educational law, quoting Horace Mann's remark that it is better to use legal force to take a child to school than to use it in taking him to prison. He recommends that the provisions of such compulsory law include the healthy chil-dren of the State between the ages of seven and fifteen years, and makes several suggestions for successfully carrying out such a law by furnishing free text-books, making parents liable for neglect to send their children to school, and prohibiting the employment of children, except under certain specified conditions.

In conclusion, he advocates more fairness in city and country enumeration, stating that, in the country districts the school enumeration is honestly made at about 30 per cent. of the population, while in the cities it averages from 35 to 60 per cent. He deplores the limitation of school tax in this city to 20 cents on the $100, which he says has crippled the city school system to some extent, and advocates a change in the law by the incoming Legislature. Considerable space also is devoted to showing why county and township school matters should be run without reference to pol-

CULLINGS FROM THE COURTS.

The Mayor's Heavy Docket of Charges Against Thieves and Other Offenders. There were over fifty offenders before Mayor Denny, yesterday morning, and it will take several days to dispose of the list. It is thought they are the parties who broke into a barber shop, the other night, and took away a were fined $50 each and sentenced to the workknown thief, was fined and held for further inwere fined $50 each and sentenced to the workhouse for thirty days. Joseph Harter and Thomas Backus were charged with stealing a lady's purse at the Eden Musee. Backus will be returned to the Reform School, and Harter will have a hearing in a few days. John Bortimas, a "Kokomo jake," who assaulted John Raefert with a beer-glass, Saturday night, was fined $25. Raefert's injuries were not as serious as first reported, and the charge was changed from attempted murder to assault and battery.

> Juries for Next Term. The county grand jury for the six months beginning the first Monday in January will consist of Henry W. Riley and George Beaman, of Pike; James C. Nelson, James Morrison and X. H. Morris, sr., of Center, and John Heard, of Wayne township.

The petit jury of the Criminal Court for the same term will be Henry Wulf and Conrad Bryan, of Wayne; Jacob Sourwine and Thomas J. Bristow, of Pike; James McFarland, of Perry; J. B. Sullivan, W. B. Fesler, J. Galvin, Jackson Sailor and W. T. Higgason, of Center; Samuel Fisher, of Franklin, and Jacob Hanch, of Decatur township.

Judges Will Enjoy the Holidays.

The county courts will all take a recess until next week, the Criminal and Superior resuming business next Tuesday. The regular term of the Circuit Court ended yesterday, but Judge Hadley will return next Monday to work up some unfinished business. He will then go to Danville to hold court for six weeks.

Receiver Appointed. Charles R. Myers has been appointed receiver of the Eagle Machine Works to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Casabianca Byfield.

At General Harrison's Home. General Harrison had a large number of visitors yesterday, notwithstanding his desire, announced through the press a day or two since, to have the present week, as far as possible, for his own personal matters. Many of the callers were out-of-town people, who came in to do their Christmas shopping, and had failed to notice the request referred to, but it is the wish of the General to have this week to himself, so he can attend to important and pressing matters.

Among the callers were the Quaker evangelists Nathan and Esther Frame, who have just closed a successful series of gospel meetings at Danville. The General greeted them warmly, and remarked that he remembered them calling on him before the election. These ministers have a wide influence among the Friends in the United States, and as stanch Republicans have United States, and as stanch Republicans have used their influence for the success of the party. The most prominent of the visitors from abroad were ex-Senator Henry G. Davis, of West Virginia, who came to pay his respects, and Judge R. S. Taylor, of Fort Wayne. In the evening, United States Senator Sawyer, of Michigan, called and spent an hour with the General. United States Senator Saunders and wife, of Nebraska, who have been visiting the Harrison family, have returned to their home, at Omaha. Holiday remembrances to the family continue to come, and one was in the form of a very unique present, received yesterday, from B. W.
